Can I Find Out What I Will Need To Pay Before Getting Treatment?

If you are considering dental work that is more expensive or beyond basic services, you can ask your dentist to request a pre-treatment estimate. A pre-treatment estimate will provide an estimate of the costs associated with the procedure.

Pre-treatment estimates are not required to receive coverage, and they are only an estimate and not a guarantee of benefits.

Are Benefits Coordinated With Other Carriers?

Coordination of benefits (COB) is a procedure for paying health care expenses when people are covered by more than one plan. If you are covered by two or more dental plans—usually because both you and your spouse receive coverage through work—your coverage will be coordinated.

What If Dependents Are Covered By Both Parents Or Guardians?

For dependents covered by both parents' or guardians' dental plans, the primary carrier is usually determined by the "birthday rule." The plan that covers the parent or guardian whose birthday comes first in the calendar year generally will be considered the primary carrier. The birthday rule may be superseded by divorce, court ruling, or applicable state law. If a dependent, such as a spouse or child, has dental coverage through a company other than Renaissance and that company does not cover the full cost of a dental visit or procedure, your dependent may be eligible to receive reimbursement for part or all of the coverage from Renaissance, provided that your dependent is also covered by your plan.

If you visit a non-participating dentist and need to file a claim for you or a dependent, you can print a claim form. To print a claim form, visit RenaissanceBenefits.com and go to the "Employee Member" section and select "Claim Form" from the "Help" menu.
